The Coming Together Of The Dragon And The Hummingbird

Feb. 20, 2013 – Los Angeles, CA – In the spirit of the Chinese New Year the February 2013 issue of Caribbean Commerce Magazine (CCM) addresses the topic, both in English and Chinese with the tap of your finger, of China’s big investment in the Caribbean Islands through bilateral trade, business partnerships and outright grants. The Hummingbirds of the Caribbean have tasted the good side of the Dragons power – but at what expense?

Highlights featured in the February 2013 issue include “Switch Languages” (double tap on icon to switch between languages of English, French, Chinese, Spanish, applying to article theme); “Share with Friends” (easy share content with email & social media tools integrated into CCM); “Interactive Ads” (plays video content directly in your ad at the same time allows purchasing directly from your ad). Fashion, health and legal are just a few of the informative articles offered in the February issue.

Caribbean Commerce Magazine, which launched its first issue in December 2012, is the first digital commerce magazine to bring the Caribbean to the world. The magazine will include articles and interviews on a wide range of topics from finance, science and technology to solar energy, entertainment and sports just to name a few. Every issue will have a tri-lingual component offering articles in three different languages per issue. “I saw an opportunity – there wasn’t a business magazine catering to businesses in the Caribbean except for tourism,” says CCM founder, Anthony Phillips. “Caribbean Commerce Magazine’s core purpose is to provide reliable information about Caribbean business opportunities for investors and buyers around the world and to stimulate growth in our established and emerging markets.”

The Caribbean’s first multimedia business magazine, Caribbean Commerce Magazine app is available for Android tablets, iPad mini and iPad.
